

 THE LETTUCE PACT

This contract serves as a pact between [_____] and [_____], as recommended by the feedback-obsessed folks at Hypercontext. This agreement is effective as of [____/____/____].

Both parties agree that if either one of them has literal or metaphorical lettuce in their teeth, it is the other party's duty to inform them, as agreed upon in the lettuce pact.

Metaphorical lettuce includes, but is not limited to:

- Poor word choice in presentations (or in general)
- Body odour
- Social faux pas
- Clothing malfunctions
- Microwaving fish at the office
- Obnoxious chewing
- Etc.

By signing this pact, you agree that you would like to be informed when you have “lettuce in your teeth,” and you will also share relevant feedback with the other party.

Disclaimer: Feedback should be given privately to minimize any embarrassment.
